I am writing to exert my right to demand that this practice be prohibited!

Fracking waste water, conditioned, treated, "cleaned" or not, has no place near any living thing, whether animal, vegetable, or human.

Until independent research (not research conducted by the oil and gas industry or by any university or lab funded by them) is completed that can demonstrate that ALL the toxins, including radiation, has been removed, should Fracking discharge or any other fluid related to this industry be permitted to be dumped, sprayed, or utilized in any way that would contact living things.

May I, as a citizen of the USA, remind you of the purpose of the EPA: Environmental Protection Agency, not Every Permit Accepted.

Sincerely,

Mary Smith
